

Tree of the Month - September

Betula nigra (River Birch)

Beautiful Peeling Bark

Leaf Shape

Betula nigra is a tall tree with a wide rounded crown. It is probably best known for the beautiful pink-brown peeling bark which gives a fantastic display all year round, however, it also has a good yellow autumn colour and attractive yellow catkins in spring.

Native to the swamps and river banks of NE America, it grows well on wet ground in full sun, and can tolerate heat extremely well.

It is available from Deepdale Trees as a standard or as a multistem. The multistems form shows off the brilliant bark to particularly good effect.
